INTERNATIONALE JOURNAL OF THE SOCIOLOGY OF LANGUAGE

General Editor: JOSHUA A. FISHMAN, Yeshiva University, New York

The INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL OF THE SOCIOLOGY OF LANGUAGE seeks to attract readers and contributors from all parts of the world and from all disciplines that pertain to the study of language use in social behavior.

The journal is dedicated to the development of the sociology of language and seeks to contribute to the growth of language-related knowledge, applications, values, and sensitivities. Five of its annual issues are topically focused, all of the articles in such issues being commissioned in advance. Contributions are, however, particularly invited on small languages and small language communities.

The Editorial Board, comprising 50 leaders in the field from various countries, cooperates with the General Editor to ensure that the journal represents international and interdisciplinary, theoretical and empirical approaches to the study of language.

Distribution: worldwide

Of interest to: linguists, sociologists, anthropologists, ethnologists, educators.
