Editors’ Note

This volume contains the basic outlines of Luigi Giussani’s reflections on Christian experience.

These texts, which vary both in nature and literary style, have been organized and edited so as to form an organic whole and a unified discourse. We have made every effort to remain faithful to the original texts, retaining Giussani’s sometimes unusual phrasing and the use of masculine terms to include all humanity, as is the accepted form in Italian.

This volume marks an essential moment and summarizes the route travelled thus far; at the same time, it is offered to the reader as an occasion to know and to delve more deeply into the contents and traits of the Christian proposal made to the people of our times.
