Acknowledgments

This book is the fruit of seven years of research and reflection. There are more people than I could possibly mention who have supported me in conducting this work.

First and foremost, I would like to thank my intellectual guides Professor Peter Gatrell and Professor Bertrand Taithe, who supervised my doctoral thesis and supported me through my postdoctoral work, providing me with invaluable suggestions and guidance. I am especially grateful for the inspiring discussions as well as their patience in reading the endless drafts of this work. I would also like to express my gratitude to my academic advisor Dr Ewa Ochman for her detailed feedback and helpful recommendations.

I gratefully acknowledge the Economic and Social Research Council, which provided the funding that made this project possible, as well as the Royal Historical Society for the additional travel and fellowship grants that allowed me to disseminate my research.

I owe a great debt of gratitude to all who shared with me their personal stories of displacement, enhancing my understanding of the history of displaced persons.

Moreover, I would like to thank Gilles Lapres for generously sharing with me his collection of documents and pictures of Maczków and Dr Łukasz Wolak for the materials he so kindly provided. Special thanks go also to Dr Jochen Lingelbach for his insightful comments and help with translation of German sources, especially handwritten letters that I would never have been able to decipher myself. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to Samantha Knapton for her support. As well as offering her counsel and sympathetic ear, she also read through the whole manuscript and spent hours talking with me about Polish DPS – dziękuję!
Special thanks must go to my Mamunia who managed to dig out and copy forgotten and obscure materials from Polish libraries.

The long months spent in the dusty and dim archives would have been much more tedious without the extremely helpful and friendly staff I encountered in the Piłsudski Archives of America, Polish Institute and Sikorski Museum, Immigration History Research Center, Arolsen Archives, Polish Museum of America, and Imperial War Museum.

I am grateful to Dr Katarzyna Person from the Jewish Historical Institute in Warsaw, Professor Paweł Sękowski from the Jagiellonian University, and Professor Marek Wierzbicki from the Catholic University of Lublin for their close reading and page-by-page feedback on my manuscript as a part of the conference “Recovering Forgotten History: The Image of East-Central Europe in English-Language Academic Textbooks and Monographs.”

I would also like to thank the two anonymous reviewers whose perceptive remarks and enthusiastic feedback helped me to make this book better. Working with my editor Richard Ratzlaff at McGill-Queen’s University Press has been a great pleasure, and I am indebted to him for all the encouragement and guidance.

In my daily work, I have been blessed with a friendly and cheerful group of friends and fellow colleagues. I am indebted to all of them for keeping me company in my academic journey and helping me uphold high spirits. For attentively reading and commenting on the fragments of my manuscript and helping me to refine my arguments I must send my thanks to Eva, Alessia, Kathleen, Elena, Becky, Dominika, Nikki, Iza, Piotr, Jan, and Julie. Shortly after submitting this manuscript, I lost Davide. Everything I am and everything I achieved I owe to him.
