Acknowledgments

The editors and contributors wish to express their gratitude to the people and institutions that made this book possible. The work would not have been possible without the generous funding from the Ford Foundation for the Alliance for International Higher Education Policy Studies (AIHEPS) project. We are especially grateful to Richard Richardson Jr. of New York University and Roland Kent of the Autonomous University of Puebla and the respective teams of researchers they lead in the United States and Mexico for their insights, patience, good humour, and thoughtful comments throughout this study. The books Las Políticas de Educación Superior en México durante la Modernización: Un Análisis Regional (Kent 2009) and Policy and Performance in American Higher Education (Richardson and Martinez 2009) report the results of the Mexican and American studies. We have also benefitted from the advice and input from other colleagues who have attended some of the meetings held by the Canadian team. Included here are Adrienne Chan, Karen Evans, Garnet Grosjean, and Amy Metcalfe. The four editors wish to acknowledge the support of their respective institutions as well as to recognize specific financial support for the publication of this book from the Université du Québec à Rimouski and the Faculty of Education, Minor Research Grant Program, at York University.

We acknowledge the encouragement received from Philip Cercone during the early stages of this project. More recently we have received invaluable support from editor in chief Jonathan Crago and Joanne Richardson our trusted copy editor. Thanks must also go to Christine Dudgeon, who did such a fine job of compiling the index. Finally, we are grateful to two anonymous readers who peer-reviewed the manuscript and offered valuable suggestions to streamline and strengthen our message.
