This volume is the result of several years’ work and the generous support and contributions of many institutions and individuals.

We are grateful to the Baldy Center for Law and Social Policy at the University at Buffalo Law School, in particular Lynn Mather and Rebecca French, directors of the Baldy Center during this time, as well as the rest of the Baldy staff, who warmly and expertly assisted us in our efforts. We would also like to acknowledge our appreciation of the American Academy of Religion for supporting this work with a Collaborative Research Grant.

Each of us thanks our home institutions, the University at Buffalo Law School and the University of Memphis, for their support of our work, and our colleagues, for their enthusiasm, critique, and forbearance.

We are also grateful for the generous editorial support given us by Kate Wahl at Stanford University Press and for the careful and thoughtful readings of the manuscript by the press’s anonymous reviewers.

Finally, we thank Kristin Tobey and Brin Stevens for their timely and professional copy-editing, and Mary Voglmayr, faculty assistant without compare, who ably organized and smoothed communication, travel, and manuscript preparation and submission.