Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: Listening with an Accent 1
JOSEPH SCIORRA

“Sunday Dinner? You Had to Be There!”: The Social Significance of Food in Italian Harlem, 1920–40 11
SIMONE CINOTTO

Cuscuszu in Detroit, July 18, 1993: Memory, Conflict, and Bella Figura During a Sicilian-American Meal 31
JOHN ALLAN CICALA

The Italian Immigrant Basement Kitchen in North America 49
LARA PASCALI

Creative Responses to the Italian Immigrant Experience in California: Baldassare Forestiere’s Underground Gardens and Simon Rodia’s Watts Towers 63
KENNETH SCAMBRA

Landscapes of Order, Landscapes of Memory: Italian-American Residential Landscapes of the New York Metropolitan Region 83
JOSEPH J. INGUANTI

Locating Memory: Longing, Place, and Autobiography in Vincenzo Ancona’s Sicilian Poetry 107
JOSEPH SCIORRA

Valtaro Musette: Cross-Cultural Musical Performance and Repertoire Among Northern Italians in New York 133
MARION S. JACOBSON

Italians in Public Memory: Pageantry, Power, and Imagining the “Italian American” in Reading, Pennsylvania 153
JOAN L. SAVERINO

Changing St. Gerard’s Clothes: An Exercise in Italian-American Catholic Devotion and Material Culture 171
PETER SAVASTANO
Cursed Flesh: Faith Healers, Black Magic, and (Re-Membering) Death in a Central Italian Town 189
LUISA DEL GIUDICE

Imagining the Strega: Folklore Reclamation and the Construction of Italian-American Witchcraft 197
SABINA MAGLIocco

Notes 215
List of Contributors 247
Index 249