Contents

Introduction
Simon Lewis and
Adam H. Domby | 1

Whom Is Reconstruction For?
Bruce E. Baker | 17

Implementing Public Schools:
Competing Visions and Crises in Postemancipation Mobile, Alabama
Hilary N. Green | 39

Reconstruction Justice: African American Police Officers in Charleston and New Orleans
Samuel Watts | 57

1874: Self-Defense and Racial
Empowerment in the Alabama
Black Belt
Michael W. Fitzgerald | 78

“They Mustered a Whole Company of Kuklux as Militia”: State Violence
and Black Freedoms in Kentucky’s
Readjustment
Shannon M. Smith | 96

A Woman of “Weak Mind”: Gender,
Race, and Mental Competency in the Reconstruction Era
Felicity Turner | 121

Idealism versus Material Realities:
Economic Woes for Northern
African American Families
Holly A. Pinheiro, Jr. | 143
“Works Meet for Repentance”: Congressional Amnesty and Reconstructed Rebels
Brian K. Fennessy | 159

Toward an International History of Reconstruction
Don H. Doyle | 181

The Dream of a Rural Democracy: US Reconstruction and Abolitionist Propaganda in Rio de Janeiro, 1880–1890
Sergio Pinto-Handler | 212

Lessons from “Redemption”: Memories of Reconstruction Violence in Colonial Policy
Adam H. Domby | 232

Remembering War, Constructing Race Pride, Promoting Uplift: Joseph T. Wilson and the Black Politics of Reconstruction and Retreat
Matthew E. Stanley | 249

Fact, Fancy, and Nat Fuller’s Feast in 1865 and 2015
Ethan J. Kytle | 276

Acknowledgments 305
List of Contributors 307
Index 309
Freedoms Gained and Lost