Foreword

This volume is the last book edited by Senior Professor Charles A. Moore—Professor of Philosophy at the University of Hawaii since 1936, Chairman of the Department until 1954, Director of the 1939, 1949, 1959, 1964 East-West Philosophers' Conferences, and Editor of Philosophy East and West from its inception in 1951 until his death, April 14, 1967.

If time and events bear out Bertrand Russell's surmise that the next major infusion of ideas into the history of Western philosophy may likely come from Asia, there is no philosopher of our time more appropriately to be termed the foremost pioneer in the "New Frontier" than Charles Moore. The promotion of cultural rapprochement by way of philosophical understanding between the people of East and West was his mission; to that end he gave his life.

Every care has been taken by those responsible for the publication of this volume to ensure that the high standards set by Professor Moore have been scrupulously adhered to. In the completion of this task special recognition and appreciation must be accorded to those who so generously and painstakingly gave of their knowledge and time: Chung-ying Cheng, Kenneth K. Inada, Walter H. Maurer, S. K. Saksena, Yukuo Uehara, and Beatrice T. Yamasaki.
