Putting together a volume of essays during a global pandemic does not sound like an easy task, particularly when the editors are located in three different countries and the lives of all of the contributors have been upended by the spread of Covid-19 in 2020 and 2021. The fact that the process of editing this book has remained such a pleasure is due to the remarkable efforts of a large number of people.

Our thanks must first go to Lucrecia Martel, not only for the dazzling, challenging and mysterious films that she has given to the world, but also for being such a thoughtful and generous interlocutor.

We are very grateful to the editors of ReFocus: The International Directors Series, Robert Singer, Stefanie Van de Peer and Gary D. Rhodes, for their unwavering encouragement and helpful feedback since the earliest days of this project. At Edinburgh University Press, Gillian Leslie, Richard Strachan and Sam Johnson have all helped to make the publication process as smooth as possible, and we are very thankful for their efforts in these complicated times.

Many people have assisted with obtaining copies of films, the acquisition of rights and the reproduction of images, among them Benjamín Domenech and Brenda Erdei at Rei Cine, Vania Catani at Bananeira Filmes, Sebastián A. Pérez at Lita Stantic Producciones, Michelle Petit de Meurville at ENERC, Mariana Amieva and Marília-Marie Goulart. We are very grateful to them all.

Our thanks are also due to Mariana Casullo Amado, Liza Casullo Amado, Gerardo Yoel, Victoria Álvarez and Virginia Flóres. Natalia Christofoletti Barrenha would like to thank Adriana Nanci Christofoletti, Agustín Masaedo, Bruno Christofoletti Barrenha, Cynthia Tompkins, Daniel Maggi, Diego Cordes, Fernando Passos, Miriam Gárate, Nadia Lie, Susana Santos Rodrigues and Tiago de Luca. Julia Kratje would like to thank Marina Etcheverrigaray and Ricardo Kratje.

A book would of course be nothing without its authors, and the editors cannot thank them enough for their insights, patience and persistence as we have worked together to make this volume a reality.
