Contents

Nancy Bell
Introduction —— 01

Neal R. Norrick
1 Language play in conversation —— 11

Thorsten Huth
2 Playing with turns, playing with action?
A social-interactionist perspective —— 47

Tony Veale
3 The shape of tweets to come:
Automating language play in social networks —— 73

Elizabeth Holt
4 “This system’s so slow”: Negotiating sequences of laughter and laughables in call-centre interaction —— 93

Olga Zayts and Stephanie Schnurr
5 Laughter as a “serious business”:
Clients’ laughter in prenatal screening for Down’s syndrome —— 119

Michael Haugh
6 Jocular language play, social action and (dis)affiliation in conversational interaction —— 143

Valeria Sinkeviciute
7 “Everything he says to me it’s like he stabs me in the face”:
Frontstage and backstage reactions to teasing —— 169

Emi Otsuji and Alastair Pennycook
8 Cities, conviviality and double-edged language play —— 199

David Hann
9 Building rapport and a sense of communal identity through play in a second language classroom —— 219
Jet Van Dam and Anne Bannink
10 The first English (EFL) lesson: Initial settings or the emergence of a playful classroom culture — 245

Søren W. Eskildsen
11 The emergence of creativity in L2 English:
A usage-based case-study — 281

Jiyun Kim
12 Teaching language learners how to understand sarcasm in L2 English — 317

Natalie Lefkowitz and John S. Hedgcock
13 Anti-language: Linguistic innovation, identity construction, and group affiliation among emerging speech communities — 347

Julia McKinney and Elaine W. Chun
14 Celebrations of a satirical song:
Ideologies of anti-racism in the media — 377

Index — 403