Acknowledgements

Funding for the construction of the CCOT was provided by research grants awarded to the Kim McDonough by the Canada Research Chairs Program (950-221304). I am grateful for the cooperation of the Program in Intensive English at Northern Arizona University for making the audio files available for analysis and to the students who granted us access to their interactions as well as the research assistants who transcribed the audio files: Zach Alderton, Jessica Bate, Megan Callahan, Yuan Chen, Maxim Lavallee, Pham Quynh Mai Nguyen, and June Ruivivar.

Many of the students taking the Ph.D. seminar, Discourse and Register Variation, in the fall of 2016 worked on earlier versions of the CCOT and made significant contributions to its format.

I would also like to thank the anonymous reviewers who provided valuable feedback on these chapters as well as Doug Biber, Jesse Egbert, and Tove Larsson for useful discussions and feedback. Finally, Seda Acikara and Amanda Black at Northern Arizona University deserve thanks for their help in manuscript preparation.
