Contents

Acknowledgements — V

1 Monsters in Context — 1
   Introduction — 1
   Sagas and Society: Writing a Past for the Needs of the Present — 4
   Making a Monster: Terminology, Theory, Methods — 6
      Hvât er troll: The Problem of Terminology — 6
      Monster Theory Contextualized — 10
      Towards a Theory of Social Monstrosity — 13
   Corpus Monstrorum — 21

2 Revenants Reconsidered — 31
   Hybridity and Transgression — 31
   Observing (Inter-)Action — 34
      Individual Revenants — 34
      Groups of Revenants — 39
   Effects of Revenancy and the Features of Social Monstrosity — 42
   Destroying the Undead — 44

3 Between Hero and Monster — Outlaws — 51
   “Engi maðr skapar sik sjálfr”: Monsters and Their Families — 52
      Vertical Relations — 53
      Horizontal Relations — 63
   “It scares me to close my eyes”: The Monstrous Outlaw — 71
      Hybridity and Transgression — 72
      Contagion — 74
      Economic Impact — 76
      What about Gísli? — 79
   Fóstbræðra saga: Brothers in Outlawry — 82
   Cursed and Broken: The Outlaw’s Death — 86

4 Nature and Nurture — Berserkir — 101
   Going Berserk — 102
      Hybridity and Transgression — 103
      Contagion — 106
      Economic Impact — 109
   Rape Culture — 110
   Fire and Iron: Killing Berserkir — 116
5 Walkers Between Worlds – Practitioners of Magic — 125
Black Magic — 127
   Hybridity and Transgression — 128
   Contagion — 131
   Economic Impact — 132
Enchanting the Land — 135
Sticks and Stones: Executing Magic-Users — 140

6 The Social Perception of Monstrosity — 149
Levels of Perspective: Intra- and Extratextual Perception — 149
Public Opinion: Expressing and Performing Perception — 152
Changing Opinion and Its Effect on the Social Monster — 155
   The Voice of the People — 156
   Individual Voices — 160
   Influencing Opinion: Curing and Killing the Monster — 163
Synthesis: The Fluid Continuum of Social Monstrosity — 167

7 Reading Monstrosity — 175
Familiar Monsters, Monstrous Families: Kinship Tensions in the Outlaw Sagas — 176
Who Would Marry a Berserk?: Women, Marriage, and Monstrous
Offspring — 183
Never Let Go: Revenants, Inheritance, and a Haunting Past — 189
Magic, Power, and Agency: Humans and the Natural World — 196

Conclusion: Writing a Monstrous Past — 209

Abbreviations — 215

Bibliography — 217

Index — 237