Acknowledgments

In addition I express my thanks to participants in various workshops, conferences, and lecture audiences for responding so helpfully, if sometimes against the grain: For Chapter 1, Western Conference for the Study of Political Thought (University of Bristol), February 1993; European Consortium for Political Research, Joint Sessions (University of Leiden), April 1993; Political Studies Association, Annual Conference (Leicester University), April 1993. For Chapter 2, American Political Science Association, Annual Meeting (New Orleans), September 1985; Department of Political Science, Public Lecture, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, November 1985; Department of Political Science, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, May 1986. For Chapters 3 and 4, British Sociological Association, Theory Group Conference on Masculinity (Bradford University), September 1988; Political Studies Association, Marxism Group (Trent Polytechnic, Nottingham), September 1988; Department of History, University College, Swansea, December 1989; European Consortium for Political Research, Joint Sessions (Bochum University), April 1990. For Chapter 5, European Consortium for Political Research, Joint Sessions (University of Limerick), April 1992; International Political Science Association, Research Committee on Political Philosophy (London School of Economics), May 1992; International Political Science Association, XVI World Congress (Berlin), August 1994.

Finally, I would like to record particular thanks to two individuals who listened to me with tremendous patience and then told me what they thought with unmissable frankness: Anna Jonásdottír and Kathy Jones. I only hope that they can find time to give me the same again, please.
