Contents

PREFACE

CHAPTER ONE: TEXTUALITY, REALITY, AND THE LIMITEDNESS OF KNOWLEDGE

1. How Much Can a Person Know?
   A Leibnizian Perspective on Human Finitude
   1
2. The Leibnizian Perspective
   4
3. Cognitive Finitude
   7
4. Surd Facts and Unknowability
   8
5. Sessions
   10

CHAPTER TWO: LIMITS OF KNOWLEDGE: UNANSWERABLE QUESTIONS AND UNKNOWABLE FACTS

1. Unknowable Facts
   13
2. Time and Prediction
   16
3. Noninstantiable Properties and Vagrant Predicates
   19
4. The Role of Numerical Disparity in Validating Claims of Inapplicability: The Musical Chairs Perplex
   22
5. Truths are Enumerable
   23
6. Truths vs. Facts
   24
7. The Transdenumerability of Facts
   26
8. A Surfeit of Facts
   29
9. Musical Chairs
   30
10. Does Incompleteness Entail Incorrectness?
   33
11. Coda: Against Cognitive Nominalism
   34
12. Postscript: A Cognitively Indeterminate Universe
   35

CHAPTER THREE: ON CONCEPTUAL CHANGE

1. Hegel vs. Plato
   41
2. The Way of Concepts
   43
3. Conceptual Change
   45
4. Science vs. Common Sense
   46
10. Philosophy in a Different Light: Recovering the Hegelian Vision of Philosophy at Large

CHAPTER EIGHT: UNIVERSALITY OF REASON: ON KANTIAN UNIVERSALIZATION IN MATTERS OF RATIONALITY AND MORALITY

1. Rationality and its Demands
2. Obligatoriness
3. Universality and Uniformity
4. The Governing Maxims of Theoretical Reason
5. The Governing Maxim of Practical and Evaluating Reason
6. Interrelationships Among the Domains
7. Maxims and Universalisation
8. An Epistemological Turn: Deduction
9. Consequentialism
10. A Kantian Moral

CHAPTER NINE: ON THE IMPORT AND RATIONALE OF VALUE ATTRIBUTION

1. Introduction
2. Tertiary Properties
3. Values as Tertiary Properties
4. Values as Supervenient
5. Values as Beneficiary Coordinated?
6. Paramount Consequences of Seeing Values as Tertiary Dispositions
7. The Epistemology of Value

CHAPTER TEN: ETHICAL QUANTITIES

1. The Problem of Ethical Quantities
2. An Impetus of Inexactness
3. Generality Creates Difficulties
Chapter Eleven: The Scope and Import of Pragmatism: On The Methodology of Practical Reason

1. Pragmatism and Purpose 163
2. The Ramification of Purpose 165
3. Overcoming Difficulties 166
4. Epistemic Pragmatism 168
5. Pragmatism and Value 169
6. A Humean Excursion 171
7. Moral vs. Epistemic Credit: A Case Study of How the Difference of Aims Explains the Difference Between the Principles at Work With Moral and With Epistemic Credit 175
8. The Crucial Rule of Interests and Needs: Wants and Preferences are not Enough 179
9. The Impetus of Interests 182

Chapter Twelve: Referential Analysis in Philosophy: A Foray in Metaphilosophy

1. Referential Analysis 185
2. Some Not-so-Ideal Types 189

Name Index 199