

Content

Introduction — 1

1 Tea in the Colony — 15

- 1.1 Introduction 15
- 1.2 Discovery of Tea and the Skills of Chinese Work — 16
- 1.3 Framing Plantations and encounters with the Lazy Native Worker — 21
- 1.4 Experimental Plantations and the search for Immobilised Worker — 24
- 1.5 Privatising the discovery and the emergence of the Assam Company — 27
- 1.6 Early Plantation enterprise and Kachari as the Ideal Worker — 31
- 1.7 Assamese peasant as coolie labour — 37
- 1.8 The Migrant Worker solution — 39

2 Contracts, Contractors and Coolies — 43

- 2.1 Introduction — 43
- 2.2 Protection, Exceptionalism and the beginnings of the Assam Contract — 45
- 2.3 The ‘Protection’ of Private arrest and the construction of managerial authority — 52
- 2.4 Assam Contract and the ‘Protection’ of the Coolie — 66
- 2.5 Act XIII and the Assam Contract(s) system — 71
- 2.6 Contractors, Sardars and the Assam Contract System — 75
- 2.7 Discourse of reform and the new contract regime — 82
- 2.8 Practice of Free System — 90
- 2.9 Free System in Surma Valley — 93
- 2.10 Conclusions — 100

3 Unpopular Assam — 105

- 3.1 Introduction — 105
- 3.2 Assam as a Lost World — 108
- 3.3 Problems of Life and Work on the Tea Gardens — 110
- 3.4 Songs and Oral Traditions of Tea Workers — 115
- 3.5 Deception of Recruiters and the Fear of Assam — 119
- 3.6 The ‘Choice’ of Assam — 123
- 3.7 Conclusions — 125

4	Drink and Work — 127
4.1	Introduction — 127
4.2	Colonial Policy and Taxing the “Coolie Drink.” — 128
4.3	Drink as Work Stimulant — 129
4.4	Industrial Tea, Intensification of Work and the Intoxicant Drink — 132
4.5	Drink and the Emerging Working Culture — 141
4.6	The Controls of Drink and Drinking Workers — 145
4.7	Conclusions — 148
5	Dustoor of Plantations — 149
5.1	Introduction — 149
5.2	Dustoor and Assam Tea Gardens in the late nineteenth century — 154
5.3	The Shifting Authority of Manager — 158
5.4	The Rice Question — 165
5.5	The Occasions of Tea Garden — 168
5.6	Coolie Lines — 174
5.7	Work Place, Authority Structure and Issues of Tasks and Wages — 177
5.8	Notions of Honour — 193
5.9	Violence as Protest, Protest as Violence — 196
5.10	A Collective Will to Leave — 200
5.11	Conclusions — 203
6	Gandhi baba ka Hookum — 205
6.1	Introduction — 205
6.2	Situating the Episode — 208
6.3	Markets and New Networks of Information — 211
6.4	Anxieties of Colonial State and Nationalists — 212
6.5	The Legitimacy of the Manager — 214
6.6	Changing Practices of Work, Life and Control on Sylhet Plantations — 218
6.7	A New Will to Leave — 221
7	Epilogue — 225
	Bibliography — 231