Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements — V

Part I: Introduction

Janina Wildfeuer, Jana Pflaeging, John A. Bateman, Ognyan Seizov, and Chiao-I Tseng
Multimodality: Disciplinary Thoughts and the Challenge of Diversity — Introduction — 3

Part II: Disciplinary Thoughts

Hartmut Stöckl
Linguistic Multimodality — Multimodal Linguistics:
   A State-of-the-Art Sketch — 41

Martin Thomas
Making a Virtue of Material Values:
   Tactical and Strategic Benefits for Scaling Multimodal Analysis — 69

Kay L. O’Halloran, Sabine Tan, Peter Wignell, Rui Wang, Kevin Chai, and Rebecca Lange
Towards a Discipline of Multimodality:
   Parallels to Mathematics and Linguistics and New Ways Forward — 93

Part III: Diversity

Axel Schmidt and Konstanze Marx
Multimodality as Challenge:
   YouTube Data in Linguistic Corpora — 115

Lauren O’Hagan
Class, Culture, and Conflict in the Edwardian Book Inscription:
   A Multimodal Ethnohistorical Approach — 145
John Harnett
Cognitive Pathfinders: Highlighting Cross-Modal Interaction and the Orchestration of Memory in Comics — 171

Christopher Taylor
Audio Description: A Multimodal Practice in Expansion — 195

Edward Larkey
Narrative as a Mode of Communication: Comparing TV Format Adaptations with Multimodal and Narratological Approaches — 219

Wendy Nielsen, Pauline Jones, Helen Georgiou, Annette Turney, and Mary Macken-Horarik
Learning Science through Generating Multimodal Digital Explanations: Contributions to Multimodality in Educational Practice — 247

Dušan Stamenković and Milan Jaćević
Video Games and Multimodality: Exploring Interfaces and Analyzing Video Game Screens Using the GeM Model — 277

Part IV: More Disciplinary Thoughts

John A. Bateman
Afterword: Legitimating Multimodality — 297

List of Contributors — 323

Index — 329