The idea for this volume goes back to two workshops organized by the editors in 2016 and 2018. The initial workshop took place in the framework of the research network “Phantom Borders in East Central Europe” funded by the German Federal Ministry of Education and Research (01UC1504 A–D). The follow-up workshop was hosted by the Interdisciplinary Centre of the Humboldt Universität zu Berlin “Border Crossings – Crossing Borders. Berlin Centre for Transnational Border Research.” We like to express our thanks to both institutions for their material support. This volume is also the beginning of a series of publications by the Berlin Center for Transnational Border Research, which will focus on the topic of the societal production of borders.

Academically, the volume profited from the discussions with the participants of the original workshops and our colleagues and friends such as Prof. Hannes Grandits, Dr. Andreas Helmedach, and PD Dr. Nora Lafi, who offered advice and help in numerous ways. In particular, we like to single out Prof. Stefan Rohdewald for reading and commenting on a draft version of the book.

In the preparation of the manuscript, Dr. Philip Jacobs prudently brushed up our language and Julian Sandhagen assisted in the editing. Finally, our thanks go to Dr. Sophie Wagenhofer and Dr. Eva Frantz from the De Gruyter publishing house for their continuous assistance.
