Acknowledgements

Many people contributed to the successful completion of this book. Key among these are the contributing authors, without whose excellence and hard work this book would not have been possible. Immense gratitude is owed to Nasir Ahmad, Claudio Albanese, Daniel Almehed, Assad Bouayoun, Fabio Caccioli, Jean-Pierre Charmaille, Iulian Cotoi, Stéphane Crépey, Jon Danielsson, Sidhartha Dash, Brandon Davies, Heike Dengler, Morgane Fouché, Philipp Gann, Jérôme Henry, Stefano Iabichino, Evgueni Ivantsov, Magdalena Kolev, Meha Lodha, Robert Macrae, Paolo Mammola, Philippe Mangold, Bahram Mirzai, Ashutosh Nawani, Torsten Pfoh, Aaron Romano, Hyun Song Shin, Robert Stamicar, Thomas Steiner, Andreas Uthemann, Marcela Valenzuela, Konrad Wälder, Olga Wälde, Ilknur Zer and Jean-Pierre Zigrand.

We also want to express our gratitude to all the people who were involved in the process of making this book.

Chapter 2: Philipp Gann would like to thank Melanie Eichhorn-Schurig for her help.

Chapter 7: Fabio Caccioli would like to thank Daniel Grigat for his collaboration on the development of the reverse stress testing model that Chapter 7 stems from.

Chapter 8: The chapter by Jérôme Henry presents his own views and not those of the ECB. The author wishes to thank the editors of the volume for having initiated this research and for their regular support, in particular Tiziano Bellini when fine-tuning the draft. The work benefited from comments by participants in the Central Banking Windsor Series seminars and in the World Finance Banking symposium, in particular from suggestions by the discussant Kangli Li. Thanks also go to Elena Rancoita for exchanges on generating stressed asset prices scenarios.

Chapter 15: Iulian Cotoi would like to thank Microsoft and notably Lindsey Allen, Xiaoyong Zhu, Jim Williams and Andrew Comas for their help on training, setting up computations in Azure ML (see) and the joint presentation at the Ai4 Finance conference.

Chapter 17: The research of Stéphane Crépey benefited from the support of the Chair Stress Test, RISK Management and Financial Steering, led by the French Ecole polytechnique and its Foundation and sponsored by BNP Paribas. The authors are thankful to Alex Miscampbell for discussions.

Chapter 18: Assad Bouayoun would like to thank Andrew Green and Ryan Ferguson, Andy Mason and Alexei Kondratyev for their help and guidance.

Chapter 21: Jon Danielsson, Robert Macrae thank the Economic and Social Research Council (UK) (grant number ES/K002309/1) and the Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council (UK) (grant number EP/P031730/1) for their support.

Chapter 23: Heike Dengler would like to thank Dirk Brechfeld, Niklas Werner and Leonard Külp for their help and guidance.

It is a pleasure to thank Jaya Dalal, Stefan Giesen and Natalie Jones for their careful review of earlier versions of the manuscript, their helpful comments and for suggesting several ways in which the book could be improved.
