

Acknowledgements

The contributions to this book grew out of a conference held in 2018 at the John F. Kennedy Institute for North American Studies in Berlin with the title “Exemplary Singularity: Fault Lines of the Anecdotal.” We would like to thank everyone involved in organizing the conference without which this volume would never have seen the light of day, including the indispensable administrative coordination by Roswitha Seidel and Catya de Laczkovich, the dedicated support from our student assistants Ronja Nayeri and Solveig Raschpichler, and the program and poster design by Hannah Nelson-Teutsch. We would also like to thank the German Research Foundation (Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft) and the Graduate School of North American Studies at Freie Universität Berlin for generously funding the conference.

The long journey from conference to finished manuscript would not have been possible without the laudable efforts of our translator, Michael Thomas Taylor, who made this book a bridge between different languages and disciplines. For copyediting we owe our deep gratitude to Ronja Nayeri, Solveig Raschpichler, Stefan Iacob, and especially Cynthia Schmitt, who was with this project from start to finish, and whose diligence and perseverance went beyond all expectations.

It is more difficult to pinpoint intellectual debts. We are grateful for the contributors to this volume for their willingness to bring the insights of specific disciplines into a larger interdisciplinary conversation. However, if there is any one person who has provided the intellectual stimulus and guidance over the years without which this book would be unthinkable, it is our mentor, colleague, and friend Ulla Haselstein. Thank you!

James Dorson, Florian Sedlmeier, MaryAnn Snyder-Körber, and Birte Wege
Berlin and Würzburg, 2020

