

Acknowledgments

The editors wish to thank the contributors for their creative responses to our query, “Wherefrom Does History Emerge?,” as well as entrusting us with their scholarly work. We also thank the persons at De Gruyter who took care of our book: Christoph Schirmer for accepting our project and steering it through the review process up to acceptance, Anne Hiller for her excellent work with editing and preparing the manuscript for publication, Sabina Dabrowski for her energetic supervision of the book’s production: “sehr gelungen” indeed! Furthermore, we thank the Eric Voegelin Society for hosting the panel in 2015 that launched this project, and the Tadich Grill of San Francisco, scene of much convivium over the years, including the lunch over which the editors first planned this volume.

A special word of thanks goes to Salvador Guilliem Arroyo, from the Instituto Nacional de Antropología e Historia in Mexico City, for giving us permission to use his photograph of the Aztec sculpture that appears here as the Cover for our book. That we could reach out to him was made possible by David Carrasco. We thankfully appreciate here his assistance.
