List of Contributors

Fiachra Mac Góráin is Associate Professor of Classics at University College London. His research interests include Virgil and the Virgilian tradition, Augustan poetry more broadly, and the representation of religion in literature. He has co-edited (with Charles Martindale) The Cambridge Companion to Virgil (Second Edition), and is writing a book to be entitled Virgil’s Dionysus.

Gesine Manuwald is Professor of Latin at University College London. Her research interests include Cicero’s speeches, Roman drama, Roman epic and the reception of the classical world especially in Neo-Latin literature. She has published widely on all these areas.

Francesco Massa is an historian of religions specializing in religious interactions in the Roman Empire. After a PhD at the École Pratique des Hautes Études in Paris and at the Fondazione San Carlo in Modena, he worked in Paris, Aix-Marseille, Toulouse, and Geneva. At present, he is Assistant Professor at the University of Fribourg where he is leading a research project on ‘Religious competition in Late Antiquity’ founded by the Swiss National Science Foundation (2019–2023). He is author of Tra la vigna e la croce. Dioniso nei discorsi letterari e figurativi cristiani (II-IV secolo) (Stuttgart, 2014).

Daniele Miano is Lecturer in Ancient History at the University of Sheffield. He has worked extensively on the history and the historiography of Pre-Roman and Roman Italy, and on ancient polytheism. His most recent book is Fortuna. Deity and Concept in Archaic and Republican Italy (OUP 2018).

John F. Miller is Arthur F. and Marian W. Stocker Professor of Classics at the University of Virginia. His recent research chiefly explores interactions between Latin literature and Roman religion; he has also published widely on Ovid in the Renaissance. He is author of Ovid’s Elegiac Festivals: Studies in the Fasti (1991) and Apollo, Augustus, and the Poets (2009), and is co-editor of five collaborative volumes on Greek and Latin literature and culture, most recently (with Jenny Strauss Clay) Tracking Hermes, Pursuing Mercury (2019).

Simon Perris is Associate Professor of Classics at Victoria University of Wellington. His main research interests are Greek tragedy and classical reception. He is the author of The Gentle, Jealous God: Reading Euripides’ Bacchae in English (2016) and co-editor of Athens to Aotearoa: Greece and Rome in New Zealand Literature and Society (2017). He is currently writing a book on classical influences on Maori literature.

Alessandro Schiesaro is Professor of Classics at the University of Manchester. His research focuses on the intersection between Latin poetry, literary theory and Roman cultural history. He has written on didactic poetry, Roman theatre, and several Roman authors and their reception.

Julietta Steinhauer is a Senior Teaching Fellow at University College London and Research Associate at the Institute of Classical Studies in London. Her main research interests are in the history of religion and migration in the Hellenistic and early Roman periods. Publications include a monograph, Religious Associations in the Post-classical Polis (2014), and several articles on related topics. Her current project focuses on the interplay of religion and migration in the Mediterranean in the second and first centuries BCE.

Stéphanie Wyler is Associate Professor of History and Anthropology of the Roman worlds at the University of Paris and researcher at the Anhima centre (Anthropologie et Histoire des Mondes Antiques). Her main research interests are images, archaeology and texts on religions in classical Rome. Her PhD was on the images of Dionysus in Rome. A list of her publications may be viewed at: http://www.anhima.fr/spip.php?article558&lang=fr