List of tables

Table 1.1: Old Irish consonants —— 16
Table 1.2: Old Irish vowels —— 17
Table 1.3: Old Irish diphthongs —— 17
Table 1.4: The spelling of the Old Irish consonants in the contemporaneous texts —— 18
Table 1.5: The spelling of the Old Irish vowels in the contemporaneous texts —— 18
Table 1.6: The spelling of the Old Irish diphthongs in the contemporaneous texts —— 18
Table 2.1: Theoretical template of the Old Irish verbal complex —— 32
Table 2.2: Old Irish conjunct particles —— 36
Table 2.3: Old Irish lexical preverbs (in alphabetical order) —— 38
Table 2.4: Old Irish deadjectival preverbs —— 39
Table 2.5: Deuterotonic and prototonic form of the same lexical compound —— 42
Table 2.6: Mutations in the Old Irish verbal complex and their graphical expression —— 49
Table 2.7: Affixal pronouns in the Old Irish verbal complex —— 53
Table 3.1: Formal possibilities in the Old Irish cleft-sentence —— 76
Table 3.2: Different positions of independent and dependent forms in the expression of positive declarative and relative clause types in Old Irish —— 93
Table 4.1: Positive declarative and relative 3SG present indicative active of ceilid ‘conceals’ —— 102
Table 4.2: Positive declarative and relative present indicative active of BI (strong) ceilid ‘conceals’ —— 103
Table 4.3: Positive declarative and relative present indicative active of AI (weak) caraid ‘loves’ —— 104
Table 4.4: Positive declarative clause type verb with 3SG n. pronominal affix of the simple verb caraid ‘loves’ —— 110

https://doi.org/10.1515/9783110680324-205
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Table 4.5:</th>
<th>Allowed combinations of simple verb and suffixed pronoun in Old Irish</th>
<th>111</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.6:</td>
<td>Positive declarative and relative clause type paradigms of the Old Irish non-preterite passive (present indicative forms)</td>
<td>116</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.7a:</td>
<td>Positive declarative and relative clause type paradigms of the Old Irish simple deponent verb suidigidir ‘places’: active forms of the present indicative</td>
<td>119</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.7b:</td>
<td>Positive declarative and relative clause type paradigms of the Old Irish simple deponent verb suidigidir ‘places’: passive forms of the present indicative</td>
<td>120</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.8:</td>
<td>Positive declarative and relative clause type paradigms of the s-preterite active of caraid ‘loves’</td>
<td>121</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.9:</td>
<td>Positive declarative and relative clause type paradigms of the suffixless preterite active of cainid ‘sings’</td>
<td>122</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.10:</td>
<td>The distribution of relative lenition and nasalization in the verb after a m./f. sg. nominal constituent with object NP_{rel} function</td>
<td>131</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.11:</td>
<td>The structural possibilities for the present indicative active and passive of an Old Irish simple verb marked as positive declarative or relative clause type verb and [+pronominal affix]</td>
<td>141</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 4.12:</td>
<td>Present indicative active and passive of the simple BI (strong) ceilid ‘conceals’: positive declarative / relative clause type and [+pronominal affix]</td>
<td>143</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.1:</td>
<td>Formal strategies and subordinate types in Old Irish</td>
<td>173</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.2:</td>
<td>Declarative and nasalizing relative marking in the 3rd person indicative copula after (h)òre ‘because’</td>
<td>177</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 5.3:</td>
<td>Declarative and nasalizing relative marking in the 3rd person copula after amal ‘as’</td>
<td>178</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.1:</td>
<td>Forms and uses of Old Irish wh-interrogative elements</td>
<td>205</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 6.2:</td>
<td>The relative position of the cleft wh-interrogative clause type with respect to other Old Irish syntactic structures</td>
<td>206</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table 7.1:</td>
<td>Active paradigms of the imperative clause type of caraid ‘loves’</td>
<td>218</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Table 7.2: Active paradigms of the imperative clause type of do-beir ‘gives, brings’ —— 219
Table 7.3: Active paradigms of the polar interrogative, imperative and responsive clause types of Al (weak) caraid ‘loves’ —— 226
Table 8.1: Grammatical categories expressed in the Old Irish verbal complex —— 239
Table 8.2: The Old Irish paradigm of clause types —— 244–245
Table 8.3: The paradigm of clause types of the active 3sg present indicative of caraid ‘loves’ —— 247
Table 8.4: The paradigm of clause types of the passive 2sg and 3sg present indicative of caraid ‘loves’ —— 248
Table 8.5: The paradigm of clause types of the active and passive 3sg present indicative of fo-cain ‘sings’ —— 249
Table 8.6: The paradigm of clause types of the active and passive 3sg present indicative of do-gní ‘makes’ —— 249
Table 8.7: Positive active clause types of the present indicative of Class Al caraid ‘loves’ without pronominal affix —— 254
Table 8.8: Positive active clause types of the present indicative of Class BI ceilid ‘hides’ without pronominal infix —— 255
Table 8.9: (A)symmetry of the negative form in the active and passive 3sg of the present indicative of simple caraid ‘loves’ —— 257
Table 8.10: (A)symmetry of the negative form in the active and passive 3sg of the present indicative of compound do-gní ‘makes’ —— 258
Table 9.1: The paradigm of clause types of the present indicative of the Old Irish substantive verb —— 265
Table 9.2: The present indicative 3sg and 3pl of the Old Irish substantive verb with locational and existential meaning —— 283
Table 9.3: The paradigm of clause types of the present indicative of the Old Irish copula —— 286
Table 9.4: The parallel suppletive pattern in the present indicative of the Old Irish copula and substantive verb —— 296
Table 9.5: The paradigm of the present indicative of the copula with the conjunct particles co^n- ‘so that, in order to’ and in- ‘in which’ —— 298
Table 9.6: Paradigms of the Old Irish copula and substantive verb other than the present indicative — 303
Table 9.7: Conjunct particles and 3sg copula ‘conjunct’ forms — 310
Table 9.8: The conjunct particle co^n- in the 3sg present indicative forms of the copula and of other verbs — 311
Table 10.1: Old Irish referential non-verbal predicates with two NPs after the V1 — 322
Table 10.2: Old Irish referential non-verbal predicates with left-dislocated NP — 325
Table 10.3: Old Irish allosentential pairs of referential non-verbal predicates with left-dislocated NP and with V1 order — 329
Table 10.4: Extension of infix -d^- from the 3sg present indicative of the copula to other verbs in indicative mood — 349
Table 10.5: Positive 3pl present indicative active forms of beirid ‘brings’ — 356