List of Tables

Table 1: The number of fruit trees in the province of Tripoli 1869
Table 2: Quantities of crops and cereal produced in 1869
Table 3: Production of fruits and vegetables (1870–1884)
Table 4: Species and numbers of animals and livestock in Tripoli
Table 5: Value of German import from Tripoli (1884–1909)
Table 6: Amount of German exports to the province of Tripoli (1903–1906) in kilogram
Table 7: Goods transported from the port of Hamburg to the port of Tripoli by cargo ship
   Khythnos on May 19, 1910
Table 8: Goods transported from the port of Hamburg to the port of Tripoli by cargo ship
   Anatolia on June 12, 1910
Table 9: Goods transported from the port of Hamburg to the port of Tripoli by cargo ship Lipsos on July 19, 1910
Table 10: Goods transported from the port of Hamburg to the port of Tripoli by cargo ship Galata on August 13, 1910

List of Pictures

Picture 1: Example of a convoy in Ghadames in 1884: Postcard by courtesy of Nora Lafi, private collection.
Picture 2: Friday market in Tripoli city in 1900: Postcard by courtesy of Nora Lafi, private collection.
Picture 3: Goods in the port city of Tripoli and customs: Postcard by courtesy of Nora Lafi, private collection.

List of Maps

Map 1: Cities of the province of Tripoli: Map from Gallica Bibliothèque de France, “Tripoli and Egypt”, 1918, GE C-4739: ark:/12148/btv1b530644090.
Map 2: Ottoman African provinces: Ottoman map of the Ottoman Sahara BOA archive Istanbul HRT.h, Number 18, 1217H.Z.29 (23-3-1803). I thank the BOA Istanbul Archive for the authorization to work on the material of Nora Lafi.
Map 3: Caravan trade routes in the province of Tripoli in the 19th century: De Mathuisieulx, H.M., A travers La Tripolitaine, Hachette, Paris, 1912, p. 19, Gallica, BNF.
Map 5: Slave trade lines and routes in 1850: © Dr. Abdelhamed Jamil, Department of Geography, King ʿAbd al-ʿAzīz University (Jeddah, Saudi Arabia).
Map 6: Barth’s journey to the province of Tripoli: Map of part of Northern Africa showing the routes of the expedition under Messieurs Richardson, Barth, Overweg & Vogel in the years