Contents

Acknowledgments — VII
Introduction — 1

Part I  Matters of meaning and truth —— 15

1  Truth ascriptions, falsity ascriptions, and the paratactic analysis of indirect discourse —— 17
2  The hybrid theory of mixed quotation —— 25
3  Self-reference and the divorce between meaning and truth —— 43
4  Performativity and the “true/false fetish” —— 49
5  Speaking of truth-telling: The view from wh-complements —— 73
6  The distance between “here” and “where I am” —— 86
7  A problem for a logic of “because” —— 98
8  What “lack” needs to have: A study in the semantics of privation —— 102
9  A fake typicality constraint on asymmetric acceptability —— 114
10 Correlative and noncorrelative conjunctions in argument and nonargument positions —— 126

Part II  Matters of meaning and force —— 139

11 Yes–no questions and the myth of content invariance —— 141
12 Deontic trouble in speech act botany —— 163
13 The gap between speech acts and mental states —— 169
14 A purported refutation of some theories of assertion —— 182
15 Two consequences of hinting —— 192
16 How to test a test for perlocutionary act names —— 198
17 Speaker meaning, sentence meaning, and metaphor —— 204
18 Voices and noises in the theory of speech acts —— 214
19 Searle’s derivation of promissory obligation —— 255
20 Searle’s Making the Social World —— 271
21 A paradox of cooperation in the theory of implicatures —— 278
22 An inferential impasse in the theory of implicatures —— 285

Part III Knowledge matters —— 297

23 How to forget that “know” is factive —— 299
24 Three problems for the knowledge rule of assertion —— 312
25 Grammars as objects of knowledge: The availability of dispositionalism —— 319

References —— 329
Index —— 339