

Contents

Foreword — V

I Theoretical fundamentals — 1

- I.1 Expression and content — 1
- I.2 Sender and receiver — 2
- I.3 Communication and signification — 3
- I.4 Inferences and culture — 4
- I.5 Difference and values — 6
- I.6 Relations and narrations — 8
- I.7 Form and substance — 9
- Recommended bibliography — 11

II Basic principles — 13

- II.1 Historical emergences, plural filiations — 13
- II.2 How we recognise textuality — 16
- II.3 On the principle of pertinence — 19
- II.4 The generative stratagem — 21
- II.5 Text and culture — 24
- Recommended bibliography — 25

III The logics of narration — 27

- III.1 Narration and narrativity — 27
- III.2 Elementary structures of signification — 28
 - III.2.1 Statics: Fundamental relationships — 29
 - III.2.2 Dynamics: Basic operations — 32
 - III.2.3 Complex term and neutral term — 34
 - III.2.4 The constitution of axiologies — 35
- III.3 Elements of narrative grammar — 37
 - III.3.1 Subject and object — 37
 - III.3.2 Subject of doing and subject of being — 38
 - III.3.3 Objects and values — 38
 - III.3.4 Actants and actors — 39
- III.4 Programmes, modalities, identities — 40
 - III.4.1 Modalities and modelling — 40
 - III.4.2 Basic programmes and instrumental programmes — 42
 - III.4.3 The Addresser — 43
- III.5 Canonical narrative schema — 45
 - III.5.1 Narration and reasoning — 48

- III.5.2 The narrative presupposition — 48
- III.6 Polemics and strategies — 49
- III.6.1 Conflicts and identity — 50
- III.6.2 Alterity and simulacra — 50
- III.6.3 Multiplication of subjectivities — 51
- III.6.4 Tactics — 52
- III.6.5 Meta-strategies and culture — 52
- III.7 Logics of affect — 53
- III.8 Canonical schema of passions — 55
- III.9 Forms of life — 58
 - Recommended bibliography — 61

- IV Enunciation and discourse — 62
- IV.1 From communication to enunciation — 62
- IV.2 Languages and subjectivity — 64
- IV.2.1 Enunciation in philosophy — 64
- IV.2.2 Enunciation in linguistics — 65
- IV.2.3 Enunciation in semiotics — 66
- IV.2.4 Enunciation and action — 68
- IV.3 Efficiency and efficacy — 70
- IV.4 Strategies of knowledge — 71
- IV.5 Intertextuality, interdiscursivity, intermediality — 75
- IV.6 Themes and figures — 78
 - Recommended bibliography — 82

- V Image, sensoriality, body — 84
- V.1 Forms and substances of expression — 84
- V.2 Figurative and plastic — 85
- V.2.1 Time in images — 86
- V.2.2 Semi-symbolism — 90
- V.3 Figurative reasoning — 91
- V.3.1 Representation and perception — 91
- V.3.2 Degrees of figurativity — 93
- V.4 Plastic language — 96
- V.4.1 Plastic categories — 97
- V.4.2 Classic and baroque — 98
- V.5 Sensory experience, corporeality, space — 99
- V.6 Synaesthesia — 102

V.7	Space and subjectivity —	107
V.8	The aesthetic grasp —	111
V.9	A final glance —	113
	Recommended bibliography —	118

Appendix: A History of the notion of text — 121

1	Text and society —	121
2	Sociosemiotics without textuality? —	124
3	From philology to linguistics —	127
3.1	A brilliant utopia —	127
3.2	A negative entity —	128
4	Aesthetics and methodology —	130
4.1	From Work to Text —	130
4.2	Discourse and narrativity —	132
5	Hermeneutics, deconstructionism, textualism —	134
5.1	Contributions of hermeneutics to sociosemiotics —	135
5.2	The outside-text —	136
5.3	The hermeneutic arch —	140
5.4	Interpretation and configuration —	142
6	Semiotics of text —	144
6.1	Interpretative cooperation —	146
6.2	Cultures and genres —	149
6.3	Generative path and projects of description —	150
7	Basics of sociosemiotics —	158
8	Ethnology and semiotics of culture —	162
8.1	Structural anthropology —	163
8.2	Interpretative anthropology —	165
8.3	Cultural models —	166
9	Farewell to representation —	172
	Recommended bibliography —	175

References — 177

Index — 195

