Acknowledgments

This book is a labor of love, and I’m deeply grateful to everyone involved in its creation and publication:

- John Stewart, Commissioning Editor and Steve Hardman, Acquisitions Editor (Business and Economics) at De Gruyter offered invaluable support in clarifying my ideas and bringing my plans to fruition.
- Jaya Dalal, Content Editor (Social Sciences), and the cover page designer, Uta Oettel brought patience and professionalism to the proceedings as we finalized how to convey the concepts of luxury, artification, and sustainability in images.
- The members of the team at De Gruyter were to a person invaluable in getting this book into print.
- Each of our contributors, for their hard work, patience, good humor, and timely submissions.
- My colleagues, staff, and friends at the University of British Columbia who were supportive of this research. There are far too many to name; you know who you are.
- The Office of Research Services UBC Okanagan, in recognition of their $2,500 grant.
- The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, who awarded me and my co-applicants several grants to research art, luxury fashion, and wine. In particular I gratefully acknowledge the most recent one on wine consumption: SSHRC grant number: #435-2017-0958.
- My editor Marina Hirsch, who has assisted with everything from the most prestigious journal publications to citations in local newspapers.
- My sisters Jolly and Kochu and my brother Joecha, as well as their children and grandchildren, have championed me through this entire process. Thank you for your unwavering support and unconditional love.
- Baba Vishwanath, Professor and former Dean of the DeGroote School of Business, who has believed in me in all these years and cheered me on in every one of my endeavors. I can only say “thank you for being there.”
- To Brenda E. F. Beck who inspired, guided and mentored me right from the start.

And finally,

- My daughter Annika Joy, my wellspring of hope and joy, took the high-resolution photograph and then created the image for the cover. I love the work of Mark Rothko; with this cover image, she captured the spirit of one of his most famous works, No. 6 (Violet, Green and Red). Thank you very much darling! Words cannot express my love for you – this one’s for you . . .
