Acknowledgements

My first thanks go to all those who pointed out errors and made suggestions for improvements to the first edition. Constructive criticism is always very helpful in improving the text, correcting mistakes, and clearing up misunderstandings. I am very grateful to Dr. Alexey Saphoznik, who took the time to read the entire first volume and suggested many modifications. My special thanks go to Professor Birge Kollmeier (University of Oldenburg), who made valuable recommendations for improving the content, particularly concerning sound and sound perception. I would also like to acknowledge my ophthalmologist Dr. Elbracht-Hülseweh, from whom I learned a lot during many years of treatment. Thanks also go to my colleagues who helped and guided me during the preparation of the first edition.

My special thanks go to the editorial staff at De Gruyter Verlag and, in particular, to Kristin Berber-Nerlinger, who encouraged me in the first place to prepare a second edition and gave me valuable advice on the implementation of this project. Nadja Schedensack helped in all stages, and Kathleen Prüfer did an excellent editorial job. I am very grateful to the entire publishing team of De Gruyter.

Last but not least, I would like to thank my family and, in particular, Rosemarie, who accompanied this project with much patience, understanding, and encouragement.
