Contents

Preface vii

Inflectional morphology and word meaning: Orthogonal or co-implicative cognitive domains?
Aleksandar Kostić, Tanja Marković and Aleksandar Baucal 1

Visual processing of Italian verbs and adjectives: The role of the inflectional family size
Daniela Traficante and Cristina Burani 45

Morphological resonance in the mental lexicon
Nivja H. de Jong, Robert Schreuder and R. Harald Baayen 65

Morphology and frequency: Contrasting methodologies
Michael A. Ford, William D. Marslen-Wilson and Matthew H. Davis 89

Derivational morphology in the German mental lexicon: A dual mechanism account
Harald Clahsen, Ingrid Sonnenstuhl and James P. Blevins 125

The interplay of root, suffix and whole-word frequency in processing derived words
Cristina Burani and Anna M. Thornton 157

On the role of derivational affixes in recognizing complex words: Evidence from masked priming
Hélène Giraudo and Jonathan Grainger 209

Morphological facilitation: The role of semantic transparency and family size
Laurie Beth Feldman and Matthew John Pastizzo 233

Recognition of spoken prefixed words: The role of early conditional root uniqueness points
Lee H. Wurm and Joanna Aycock 259
Contents

Lexical representation of morphologically complex words: Evidence from Polish
Agnieszka Anna Reid and William David Marslen-Wilson 287

Identification of spoken prefixed words in French
Fanny Meunier and Juan Segui 337

Frequency effects in regular inflectional morphology: Revisiting Dutch plurals
R. Harald Baayen, James M. McQueen, Ton Dijkstra and Robert Schreuder 355

How does a child detect morphology? Evidence from production
Wolfgang U. Dressier, Marianne Kilani-Schoch and Sabine Klampfer 391

Frequency effects in processing inflected Dutch nouns: A distributed connectionist account
Matthew H. Davis, Maarten van Casteren and William D. Marslen-Wilson 427

When word frequencies do not regress towards the mean
R. Harald Baayen, Fermín Moscoso del Prado Martín, Robert Schreuder and Lee Wurm 463

Spelling errors with a view on the mental lexicon: Frequency and proximity effects in misspelling homophonous regular verb forms in Dutch and French
Dominiek Sandra and Michel Fayol 485

List of contributors 515
Subject index 519