Contents

Preface and Acknowledgements ........................................... vii
List of Illustrations .......................................................... xi

Introduction
The Parameters of German Cultural Zionism: The Possibility of a Jewish-National Literature in German? ......................... 1

Chapter One
The Jewish Renaissance in Vienna and Berlin: A Literature and Art for the Sake of Zion .................................................... 17

Chapter Two
Satisfaktionsfähigkeit and Jewish Pride: The Literary and Cultural Expressions of Jewish Students and Fraternity Life at the Turn-of-the-Century ......................................................... 55

Chapter Three
Börries von Münchhausen and E.M. Lilien: The Genesis of Juda and its Zionist Reception ....................................................... 87

Chapter Four
The Rhetoric of Race and Jewish-National Cultural Politics: From Birnbaum and Buber to Brieger’s René Richter ..................... 125

Chapter Five
Feminist-Zionist Expression: Ideology, Rhetoric, and Literature ........................................................... 161

Chapter Six
Eroticism and Masochism in Cultural Zionism: Else Lasker-Schüler and Dolorosa ......................................................... 203
Chapter Seven

Conclusion
German Cultural Zionism, Jewish Difference, Modern Jewish Cultural Identity, and National Creativity ........................ 275

Selected Bibliography ........................................ 291

Index ............................................................ 303