Acknowledgments

This monograph is the revised version of my 2021 University of Tübingen dissertation. I owe special thanks to Susanne Winkler and Sam Featherston, who assisted me throughout this research project with invaluable advice and constructive criticism. Their profound knowledge of the field and experimental techniques had a lasting impact on my own thinking about linguistics and how to systematically approach a phenomenon.

I have benefitted greatly from discussions on this research at various occasions with Peter W. Culicover, Andreas Konietzko, Jutta M. Hartmann, and Jessica Brown. I also thank Hans Kamp, Liliane Haegeman, Katja Jasinskaja, Martin Salzmann, and Michelle Sheehan for valuable comments on talks of the material presented here. The helpful comments of an anonymous reviewer for this volume have encouraged me to clarify the discussion in some points and draw a stronger connection to similar proposals.

All remaining errors and shortcomings are necessarily my own.

The majority of the research for this monograph was carried out during my time at the Collaborative Research Center SFB 833 – The Construction of Meaning at the University of Tübingen, funded by the German Research Foundation (Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft, DFG, Project-ID 75650358). Among the many colleagues there, I want to thank especially Marion Jäger for being a role model in organizational issues, Robin Hörnig and Edith Scheifele for invaluable assistance in experimental designs and the fundamentals of statistical analysis, as well as Álvaro Cortés Rodríguez and Larissa Specht for always having an open ear when I was stuck at some point.

I also thank the editors of the Studies in Generative Grammar series, Norbert Corver and Harry van der Hulst, for considering this monograph for inclusion in the series. At De Gruyter Mouton, I thank Birgit Sievert and Kirstin Börgen for their editorial support throughout the publication process.

The most profound acknowledgment I can make is to my parents, family, and friends, who never ceased to support me. Thank you!
