CONTRIBUTORS

Víctor Alarcón is Professor of Political Science at the Centro de Investigación y Docencia Económicas (Mexico City), and a faculty member at the University of Notre Dame.

Norberto Bobbio is Professor of Political Philosophy at the University of Turin and the author of several books, including The Future of Democracy (1987) and Which Socialism? Marxism, Socialism and Democracy (1987).

Roberto Campos is a Brazilian intellectual whose writings include Reflexões do crepúsculo (Rio de Janeiro, 1991), and O Século Esquisito (Rio de Janeiro, 1990).

César Cansino is Professor of Political Theory at the National Autonomous University of Mexico and author of several books, including Ernst Bloch, Sociedad, Política y Filosofía (Mexico, 1987), and Carl Schmitt: Ensayos Críticos (Mexico, 1988).

Ernest Gellner was Director, Centre for the Study of Nationalism, Central European University, Prague, and a Fellow of King’s College Cambridge. His many books include Nations and Nationalism (1983), Relativism and the Social Sciences (1985), *Culture,
Contributors

John A. Hall is Professor of Sociology at McGill University; his books include Powers and Liberties (1985) and Liberalism (1987).

Ghita Ionescu is Professor of Political Science at the London School of Economics and Political Science and the author of several books and essays, as well as editor of Government and Opposition.

Helio Jaguaribe is Professor of Political Science and Director of the Instituto de Estudios Políticos e Sociais (Rio de Janeiro); his several books include Sociedade, Estado e Partidos, na atualidade Brasileira (São Paulo 1992).

Gregory R. Johnson is an independent scholar residing in Athens, Georgia, USA. He is Executive Editor of Reason Papers and was formerly Executive Editor of Critical Review, of which Merquior was a Contributing Editor.

Celso Lafer is Professor of Philosophy of Law at the University of São Paulo and the author of several books, including Ensaios sobre a liberdade (São Paulo, 1984), Hannah Arendt, pensamiento, persuasión e poder (São Paulo, 1979), A reconstrução dos direitos humanos (São Paulo, 1991), and Ensaios Liberais (São Paulo, 1991).

Ramón Máiz is Professor of Political Theory at the University of Santiago de Compostela (Spain) and the author of several books and essays.