FRONTIERS OF NARRATIVE STUDIES

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
Shang Biwu, Shanghai Jiao Tong University, China

CO-EDITORS
William Baker, Northern Illinois University, USA
Wolfgang G. Müller, Friedrich Schiller University, Jena, Germany

EDITORIAL BOARD
Péter Hajdu, Hungarian Academy of Sciences, Hungary
David Herman, Durham University, UK
Stefan Iversen, Aarhus University, Denmark
Karin Kukkonen, University of Oslo, Norway
Gunther Martens, Ghent University, Belgium
Brian McHale, Ohio State University, USA
Ansgar Nünning, University of Giessen, Germany
Vera Nünning, University of Heidelberg, Germany
Ruth E. Page, University of Birmingham, UK
James Phelan, Ohio State University, USA
Gerald Prince, University of Pennsylvania, USA
Qiao Guoqiang, Shanghai International Studies University, China
Brian Richardson, University of Maryland, USA
Marie-Laure Ryan, Independent Scholar, USA
Dan Shen, Peking University, China
Michael Toolan, University of Birmingham, UK
Wang Ning, Shanghai Jiao Tong University, China

DE GRUYTER
Contents

Special Issue: Peripheral narratives, minority identities
Guest Editors: Sjoerd-Jeroen Moenandar and Alberto Godioli

Sjoerd-Jeroen Moenandar and Alberto Godioli
Introduction: Peripheral narratives, minority identities — 133

Jeanette den Toonder
Narrating pain: The power of storytelling in Maryam Majdidi’s Marx et la poupée — 139

Pinelopi Tzouva
Cancer made me a shallower person: A minoritarian story in comics — 158

Sjoerd-Jeroen Moenandar and Alberto Godioli
Where is the child? Refugee narratives in contemporary European popular culture — 180

Margriet van der Waal
Dirty politics: The stories of soap in South Africa — 206

Sjoerd-Jeroen Moenandar, Miruna Lucaci and Joana Duarte
“Or even Frisian, yes. No, no”: The negotiation of space for a minority language in narratives by pre-service teachers — 224

General section

Peter Hühn
Covert narrativity in contemporary poetry: English and German examples — 250

Robert Eaglestone
“The little links are broke”:
Ethnocentrism and Englishness in contemporary British fiction — 264
Review

Kanjing He
Yvonne Liebermann, Judith Rahn & Bettina Burger, eds. Nonhuman agencies in the twenty-first-century Anglophone novel —— 281