The Zeitschrift für Naturforschung is edited with the consensus of a council consisting of E. Bünning, Tübingen A. Butenandt, München M. Eigen, Göttingen W. Gentner, Heidelberg and enjoys the collaboration of the Institutes of the Max-Planck-Gesellschaft.

It is published monthly in three separate sections:

Section a: Physics, Physical Chemistry, Cosmic Physics.

Section b: Inorganic and Organic Chemistry.

Section c: Biochemistry, Biophysics, Biology.

The sections include four types of contributions:

Original papers.

Notes. These are short original papers not exceeding two pages in small print which are to be published within six weeks after submission.

Reports on current research of special interest.

Book reviews (in Section b only).

Section a which is a Europhysics Journal, is edited by

P. Franzosini, Pavia J. Kistemaker, Amsterdam
A. Klemm, Mainz E. Lindholm, Stockholm
D. Pfirsch, München H. Preuss, Stuttgart
L. Waldmann, Erlangen

Information for Contributors to Section a

Please send your contribution to the managing editor Mrs. T. Littmann, Lenzhalde 21, D-7082 Oberkochen

(Section b: Dr. H. Voelter; Section c: Dr. H. Hau sen, both P. O. Box 2645, D 7400 Tübingen)

The authors are encouraged to suggest possible reviewers of their contributions.

The manuscripts should be typewritten using double spacing throughout.

The title should be concise but informative. The names of the authors and of the institution where the work was carried out follow the title. A running title with not more than 60 characters should be indicated if the title is longer than this.

In a footnote on the first page, please give an address for reprint requests.

A title and an abstract in English, suitable for direct use by the abstracting journals, must precede the main text of each contribution.

The main text should meet the highest standards as to novelty of the material, organisation and conciseness. A qualified colleague and, if the text is in a foreign language, a person who thoroughly knows that language, should have been given the opportunity to check the paper before its submission for publication.

References and footnotes should be numbered (e.g. A. Meyer [1]) and listed at the end of the paper.

Tables with the appropriate captions and a list of the figure legends should follow at the end of the paper.

Allowance should be made for the reduction in printing of the drawings (line thickness, lettering!). Original drawings larger than 21 × 30 cm should be replaced by copies of reduced size when the manuscript is submitted and only be sent in when the paper is accepted. On all illustrations, the figure number and the author’s name must be written in pencil.

Changes in the text after acceptance of the paper create extra costs which may be charged to the author.

Orders for reprints must be made when the galley proofs are returned. 50 reprints are free of charge.
