In Memory of

T. J. DUNBABIN
Most of the questions that this book discusses were suggested to me by the scholar to whose memory it is dedicated. If I have failed to answer them as well as I might have done under his guidance, the fault is my own and not that of the many friends who, by reading and criticizing preliminary drafts or by placing their knowledge at my disposal in other ways, have greatly improved this final version and saved me from many errors.

First and foremost, I must thank Professor G. R. Manton of the University of Otago for his help from the very beginning of the work. Miss Sylvia Benton, Miss D. H. F. Gray, and Mr. H. Wynmalen took great pains over the earlier versions, which were much improved by their criticisms. I must also thank Mr. Wynmalen for permission to quote passages from his books, _Equitation_ and _Dressage_. To Mr. D. E. L. Haynes, Mr. R. D. Barnett, Mr. J. Boardman, and Mr. R. M. Cook I owe thanks not only for their advice on particular points but for making available to me the means of further study while I was in England. Professors D. A. Amyx, J. Fontenrose, A. E. Gordon, W. C. Helmbold, and W. K. Pritchett of the University of California have been most generous in giving time to my problems, and Professor H. R. W. Smith has helped me by his encouragement and advice. Dr. Marian Stewart and Mr. W. Hastie of Dunedin advised me on technical matters. Mr. Max E. Knight of the University of California Press, Editorial Department, has shown himself indulgent to my foibles, but firm in rebuking error. I am most grateful to him and his colleagues.

The many persons and institutions that have helped me with the illustrations are thanked separately in the notes to the plates.

Much of the work on this book was done while I was on leave from the University of Otago, to whose Council I express my gratitude. To the Regents of the University of California I am indebted for a research grant covering the many expenses incidental to the preparation of the final manuscript.
