CONTENTS

Preface, vii

I. Introduction, 1

II. Wittgenstein's Two Visions of Language, 24

III. Language Learning and Meaning, 50

IV. Context, Sense, and Concepts, 71

V. The Problem of Words and the World, 99

VI. Grammar and Forms of Life, 116

VII. Language Regions, Moral Discourse, and Action, 140

VIII. Justice: Socrates and Thrasymachus, 169

IX. Membership, the Social, and the Political, 193

X. Judgment, 219

XI. Action and the Problem of Social Science, 241

XII. Explanation, Freedom, and the Concepts of Social Science, 264

XIII. Philosophy and the Study of Political Theory, 287

XIV. Political Theory and the Modern Predicament, 316

Bibliography, 341

Index, 351