

CONTRIBUTORS

Evelyn Blackwood is Assistant Professor of Women's Studies and Anthropology at Purdue University. She has published articles on Native American berdache/two-spirit people and lesbian relations cross-culturally, and is the editor of The Many Faces of Homosexuality: Anthropology and Homosexual Behavior (1986).

Suzanne A. Brenner is Assistant Professor of Anthropology at the University of California, San Diego. Her research has focused on gender, hierarchy, and social change in Java. She is currently working on a book that analyzes gendered discourses of tradition, modernity, and social order in contemporary Indonesia.

Janadas Devan is a lecturer in English at the Nanyang Institute of Technology, Singapore. His scholarship concerns neo-Confucianism and nationalism in Southeast Asia.

Geraldine Heng is Assistant Professor of English at the University of Texas, Austin. She is writing a book on medieval romance called Empire of Magic: Romance and the Politics of Cultural Fantasy.

Jennifer Krier wrote her Ph.D. dissertation on gender, power, and state-region relationships among the Minangkabau of West Sumatra, Indonesia. She is currently working on issues of property, gender, and citizenship as a Liberal Arts Fellow at Harvard Law School.

Jane A. Margold is a Visiting Scholar at the Center for Humanities, Wesleyan University. Her research deals with the transnational emergence of new political subjectivities; with masculinities; and with the persistence of servitude in the postcolonial world.

Mary Beth Mills is Assistant Professor of Anthropology at Colby College. Her most recent research examines changing gender and household relations as a result of rural-urban labor migration in Thailand. She is presently working on a book entitled "We Are Not Like Our Mothers": Modernity and Identity among Thai Migrant Workers.

Aihwa Ong is Associate Professor of Anthropology at the University of California, Berkeley. She is the author of Spirits of Resistance and Capitalist Discipline: Factory Women in Malaysia (1987). Her research concerns new Asian immigrants in California and overseas Chinese in the Asia-Pacific region.

Michael G. Peletz is Associate Professor of Anthropology and Director of Asian Studies at Colgate University. His publications include A Share of the Harvest: Kinship, Property, and Social History Among the Malays of Rembau (1988), and Reason and Passion: Representations of Gender in a Malay Society (1995).

Jacqueline Siapno is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of South and Southeast Asian Studies at the University of California, Berkeley. Her research and writing focus on literature—traditional Malay, modern Indonesian, and Philippine.