Contents

Acknowledgments ix

1 The Facts and the Philosophy: Frederick Douglass as Political Thinker 1

2 “Every Man Is Himself and Belongs to Himself”: Slavery and Self-Ownership as the Foundations of Douglass’s Liberalism 14

3 From Slavery to Liberty and Equality: Douglass’s Liberal Democratic Politics 41

4 “Each for All and All for Each”: Douglass’s Case for Mutual Responsibility 76

6 “Man Is Neither Wood Nor Stone”: Top-Down Moral Education in Douglass’s Liberalism 128

7 Conclusion: Frederick Douglass in the American Mind 158

Notes 171

Bibliography 201

Index 209

About the Author 215
This page intentionally left blank