Acknowledgements

We wish to acknowledge the international scholars in this book, their knowledge of the field and their responsiveness to deadlines, revisions and countless emails. We are particularly grateful to series editor Viv Edwards, who saw the value in the topic and the book as an area worthy of serious attention. Her encouragement to develop the themes and our initial proposal has strengthened the book and its contribution to the field. The Faculty of Education at Monash University provided funding towards the final editing of the chapters and we thank our colleague Nike Prince for her meticulous, efficient and supportive role as copy editor. It is thanks to Nike that the manuscript came together in a timely fashion. Thanks also to Prue Madden who helped us navigate through the contractual agreements. We also wish to thank the publishers and all those who worked on the production side so efficiently. It is with much sadness that we acknowledge the sudden passing of Professor Peter Martin in April 2009. Our condolences go to his family, colleagues and friends, including co-authors Angela Creese and Arvind Bhatt.
