Acknowledgments

The final pleasure of writing this book is seeing all the trees – the colleagues, friends, family members, mentors, and students – growing in my forest.

At Duke University, where the pine tree abounds, I enjoyed the guidance and intellectual generosity of Laurie Shannon, Maureen Quilligan, Marc Schachter, Sarah Beckwith, Priscilla Wald, Tom Ferraro, Fiona Somerset, Sean Metzger, and Houston Baker. I also had the good fortune to traipse across the bosky terrain of graduate school with a host of inspiring fellow travellers: Monique Allewaert, Lara Bovilsky, Dan Breen, Max Brzezinski, Lauren Coats, Kate Crassons, Charles Del Dotto, Hillary Eklund, Alisha Gaines, Erin Gentry, Anne Gulick, Cara Hersh, Shannon Kelley, Nihad Farooq, Russ Leo, Kinohi Nishikawa, Eden Osucha, Jimmy Richardson, Britt Rusert, and Jini Watson. At the University of British Columbia, where the smell of cedar greets me on the way to my classrooms, I have had the immense pleasure of counting Dina al-Kassim, Patsy Badir, Mary Bryson, Miranda Burgess, Mary Chapman, Tony Dawson, Alex Dick, Bo Earle, Siân Echard, Stephen Guy-Bray, Liz Hodgson, Tom Kemple, Deanna Kreisel, Chris Lee, Tina Lupton, Scott MacKenzie, Laura Moss, Dory Nason, Alan Richardson, Robert Rouse, Judy Segal, Jeff Severs, Janice Stewart, and Sandy Tomic as colleagues and friends. SFU’s Tiffany Werth and I arrived to Vancouver in 2006, and, as Tison Pugh predicted, we hit it off. I am grateful that she and Patsy commented on every word of this book. Not long after I started at UBC, I met Greg Mackie, the dearest Canadian I know. He responded to every possible incarnation of Wooden Os and made it smarter each time.

For their invitations to share my work at their universities and for their hospitality, I thank Cord Whitaker at the University of New Hampshire,
Joseph Campana at Rice University, and Jen Hill at the University of Nevada, Reno. For their good company and support during the days of writing and on the conference circuit, I thank Dan Brayton, Jim Bromley, Lynne Bruckner, Joshua Calhoun, Jeffrey Cohen, Julie Crawford, Holly Dugan, Simon Estok, Jennifer Feather, Jean Feerick, Will Fisher, Mary Floyd-Wilson, Ed Geisweidt, Gil Harris, Jean Howard, Miriam Jacobson, Aaron Kunin, Rebecca Laroche, Scott Maisano, Gretchen Minton, Jennifer Munroe, Madhavi Menon, Steve Mentz, Sharon O’Dair, David Orvis, Alan Stewart, Will Stockton, Garrett Sullivan, Catherine Thomas, Cliff Werier, Paul Yachnin, and Julian Yates. The image of the sawpit is for Valerie Traub. Special thanks to Jeffrey Masten for the parachute.

I dedicate this book to the memory of my mother, who died just as I was starting to compose it. I like to think of it as a plant written in her honour.