Acknowledgments

It is with gratitude and pleasure that we thank the following people who have helped make this book possible. First, our contributors, who share our admiration and affection for Vittorio De Sica and his films. Thanks too to our translators, Eugene Walz and Michelle Walz, Hubert Balcaen, and Jean-Pierre Allard. An essential thank you to John Daretta whose De Sica bibliography showed the way.

At the University of Toronto Press we would particularly like to thank Bill Harnum for encouraging our participation in the Toronto Italian Studies series, and our editor Ron Schoeffel for his constant support and enthusiasm. Thanks as well to our readers Bart Testa and Patrick Rumble for their scrutiny of the manuscript and for helpful suggestions, to our typist Carol E. Adams, and to Joan Bulger for her scrupulous eye in preparing the manuscript for publication.

We are grateful to the staff of the Elizabeth Dafoe Library at the University of Manitoba, to Marilyn Loat of the Film Studies Department, University of Manitoba, to Mary Corliss and her staff in the Stills Department of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, and to Lee Amazonas and the staff of the Pacific Film Archive, Berkeley. A warm salute to Pauline Kael for the pleasure her writing has given and for waiving the reprint fee for her Shoeshine review.

Finally, personal thanks are owed to colleagues present and past, friends, and loved ones who have sustained and prodded us and been patient along the journey: George Toles, Eugene Walz, Mark West, Frank Burke, Norm Larsen, Bill Simon, Bev Phillips, Donna Lewis, and our students.

This book is for our parents.
