LIST OF MAPS, TABLES AND ILLUSTRATIONS

PART ONE
Figure 1: Map of the Byzantine and Arab Empires (Kyle Brunner)
Figure 2: Map of Northern Mesopotamia (Kyle Brunner)
Figure 3: A standing caliph coin from Edessa, early 690s (after Schulze 2010)
Figure 4: Plan of the city of Amida (adapted from Trombley and Watt 2000)
Figure 5: The western façade of the congregational mosque of Amida (Gertrude Bell Archive)
Table 1: Muslim Arab raids of the 690s and Byzantine reprisals

PART TWO (Figure 11 courtesy of the Syriac Orthodox Patriarchate, the rest: Andrew Palmer)
Figure 6: The ruins of the monastery of St Abai near the village of Qelleth
Figure 7: Qelleth seen from the direction of the monastery of Mor Abai
Figure 8: The ruins of the monastery founded by Theodotus near Qelleth
Figure 9: The lintel of the Beth Qaddishe of the monastery of St Theodotus
Figure 10: The Beth Qaddishe (‘house of saints’) of the monastery of St Theodotus
Figure 11: Syriac Orthodox Patriarchate MS No. 362, folio 58 recto
Figure 12: Sketch of a loaf of bread used as an oblation or a blessing
Table 2. Key to the column-numbers between round brackets in the text
Table 3. Emendations supported by the evidence of Vat. sir. 160
Table 4. Miaphysite patriarchs of Antioch
Table 5a. Heads of the Monastery of Qenneshre
Table 5b. Heads of the Monastery of John Urţoyo at Amid Table 6. Echoes of L. Simeon (Vat. sir. 160) in the Life of Theodotus.
Table 7. Vocabulary
Table 8. Greek loanwords
Table 9. Scriptural references

APPENDIX 3 (all figures by Charlotte Labedan-Kodaş)
Figure i: Map of the stages of the journey of Theodotus to Mt Aghlosh
Figure ii: Fortified site located to the north of Gümüşyuva
Figure iii: Wall in the fortified site located to the north of Gümüşyuva
Figure iv: Ancient village located to the south of Gümüşyuva
Figure v: Plan of the religious complex (adapted from Wiessner 1980, 53, fig. 7)
Figure vi: Plan of the church and enclosure of Daniel
Figure vii: Frieze of the archivolt located in the church
Figure viii: Pillar with impost located in the church
Figure ix: Limestone wall located to the north of the religious complex
Figure x: Part of a pillar and of the arch between the apse and the nave of the church
Figure xi: Windows of the church
Figure xii: Opening in the apse of the church
Figure xiii: The Beth Qaddishe
Figure xiv: Crosses on limestone blocks in the church and the Beth Qaddishe
Figure xv: Tower on the east side of the church