

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

WE ARE THANKFUL to the contributors for their willingness to be a part of this volume and for laying the foundation for our own scholarship on crimes of the state. Thank you to our colleagues for the support, guidance, and knowledge you so willingly share. We also want to thank William Chambliss and M. Cherif Bassiouni for their willingness to provide the foreword and introduction to this volume. We are truly honored by your contributions. We also would like to acknowledge Barb Perry for reviewing the manuscript and providing insightful comments and suggestions. Thank you, Barb. Thank you also goes out to our editors at Rutgers for their support and guidance during this process, and to Hope for all of her hard work. We also would like to acknowledge the International State Crime Research Consortium, housed at Old Dominion University, College of Arts and Letters. Of course, no acknowledgment would be complete without mentioning how grateful we both are to our families for their love and support.

*State Crime:
Current Perspectives*