CONTENTS

1
INTRODUCTION

2
HISTORICAL BACKGROUND 8
Fear of “Legislative Despotism” 8
“Limits” and “Checks” on Congress 13
Protection of Private Rights 16
Crosskey’s Presumption Against Judicial Review 22
   Coke’s Influence 23
   Blackstone’s Influence 28
   The Influence of State “Precedents” 36

3
THE FEDERAL CONVENTION AND BEARD’S TALLY 47
   Remarks in the Convention 49
   Remarks of Framers Outside the Convention 81
   Implications of Judicial Independence 117

4
THE STATE RATIFICATION CONVENTIONS 120
   Connecticut 124
   Massachusetts 125

xi
CONTENTS

State Court Review of State Laws: Its Implications for Review of Federal Laws 258
State Court Power to Declare Federal Laws Unconstitutional 266
Must State Courts Exercise Jurisdiction? 279
May Congress Constitutionally Create a Jurisdictional Vacuum? 281

9
THE CONGRESSIONAL POWER TO MAKE EXCEPTIONS TO THE APPELLATE JURISDICTION 285

10
SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY: WITHHOLDING CONSENT TO SUIT ON CONSTITUTIONAL CLAIMS 297

II
CONCLUSION 335

APPENDIX A
DR. BONHAM'S CASE 349

APPENDIX B
TREATIES "UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THE UNITED STATES" 369

BIBLIOGRAPHY 391
INDEX OF CASES 399
GENERAL INDEX 403

xiii
CONGRESS v. THE SUPREME COURT
AUTHOR'S NOTE: To facilitate citation, frequently cited authorities are cited by the author's name only unless more than one work by the same author is used. For further identification see bibliography, p. 391. Where notes refer to other notes to this text, citation is to the chapter in which the citing note appears unless otherwise identified by chapter. Italics throughout are in the quoted original unless otherwise indicated.