Contents

List of figures, tables and boxes v
Notes on contributors vi
Acknowledgements ix
Series editor’s foreword by John Mohan x

1 Introduction
   Eddy Hogg and Jon Dean 1

2 (Un)suitable methods and reflexive considerations: an interview and focus group study of youth volunteering
   James Davies 12

3 Interpretive ethnography: a UK charity shop case study
   Triona Fitton 24

4 Collaborative philanthropy and doing practically relevant, critical research
   Angela M. Eikenberry and Xiaowei Song 36

5 Peer research: co-producing research within the context of voluntary and community action
   Ellen Bennett 46

6 Charity advertising: visual methods, images and elicitation
   Abhishek Bhati and Jon Dean 59

7 Using archives and objects in voluntary action research
   Georgina Brewis 70

8 Using Mass Observation as a source of qualitative secondary data for interdisciplinary longitudinal research on voluntary action
   Rose Lindsey 84

9 Investigating meanings and messages on volunteering through television media
   Kimberly Wiley 96

10 Annual reporting in voluntary organisations: opportunities for content analysis research
    Carolyn Cordery and Danielle McConville 110

11 Researching risk in the voluntary sector: the challenges and opportunities of regulatory data
    Diarmuid McDonnell and Alasdair C. Rutherford 122
| 12 | Exploring the benefits of volunteering: combining survey and administrative data in the Nordic 'laboratory' | 135 |
|    | Hans-Peter Y. Qvist |
| 13 | Spatial approaches to the voluntary sector | 146 |
|    | James Bowles |
| 14 | Restudies, surveys and what counts as volunteering | 160 |
|    | Jon Dean and Diarmuid Verrier |
| 15 | Conclusion | 171 |
|    | Jon Dean and Eddy Hogg |

References | 177 |
Index | 198 |