Contents

List of figures and tables ................................................................. v
Notes on contributors .................................................................. vi
Foreword ..................................................................................... xii

Gita Steiner-Khamsi

Introduction ................................................................................ 1
Miri Yemini, Claire Maxwell and Christopher Lubienski

1 Collective parental involvement: an in-between actor ................. 10
Audrey Addi-Raccah

2 When teachers become the external actor: private tutoring and endogenous privatisation in Cambodia .......................... 31
Hang M. Le and D. Brent Edwards, Jr

3 Cross-sectoral alliances in charter schools: the role of boards of directors from for-profit and non-profit sectors .......... 50
Charisse Gulosino and Elif Şişli Ciamarra

4 A communitarian framework for understanding the relations between schools and NGOs ........................................ 80
Izhar Oplatka

5 PISA for sale? Creating profitable policy spaces through the OECD's PISA for Schools ........................................... 91
Steven Lewis and Bob Lingard

6 Historical reconfigurations of internal/external actors in Danish educational testing practices ................................. 113
Christian Ydesen

7 A short history of external agency involvement within education in contemporary Poland .............................................. 133
Mikołaj Herbst

8 New philanthropy in the heterarchical governance of education in Brazil ................................................................. 150
Marina Avelar

9 Venture philanthropy and the rise of external actors in Australian education .......................................................... 167
Emma Rowe
10  Power struggle in education policy change: the role of knowledge actors in structural reforms in Chile
   Dante Castillo-Canales and Javier González Díaz

Conclusion: Complexity and intentionality of external actors in education
   Christopher Lubienski, Claire Maxwell and Miri Yemini

Index