Contents

Notes on contributors ........................................ vi
Acknowledgements ............................................... ix
Foreword .......................................................... xi
Preface .............................................................. xii

Introduction  Biographical approaches to mothering: identities and lived realities

Lyudmila Nurse, Lisa Moran and Kateřina Sidropulu-Janků

1  Becoming and being a Polish mother: narratives on the motherhood experience
   Katarzyna Gajek .................................................. 18

2  ‘A good mother is a good mother and a good wife’: gender politics and mothering practice among older Iranian Muslim women
   Elham Amini ...................................................... 41

3  Exploration of mothering and shifting identities in Kenya
   Fibian Lukalo ..................................................... 61

4  Biographies of Roma mothering in contemporary Czechia: exploring tapestries of multi-ethnic gendered identity in a marginalised social position
   Kateřina Sidropulu-Janků and Jana Obrovská .......... 82

5  Identities and life choices of mothers in a disadvantaged neighbourhood in England
   Lyudmila Nurse .................................................. 103

6  Giving voice to Irish mothers experiencing separation and divorce
   Rosemary Crosse and Michelle Millar ..................... 121

7  Ideal, good enough and failed motherhood: how disabled Canadian mothers manage in hostile circumstances
   Claudia Malacrida ............................................... 140

8  Confronting meanings of motherhood in neoliberal Australia: six crystallised case studies
   Laetitia Coles, Emma Cooke and Jasneek Chawla ...... 158

9  Unplanned breakdown of foster mothering: biographical perspectives on identity challenges of foster mothers
   Daniela Reimer .................................................. 194
10 Non-mothers: identities, ambiguity, biography making and life choices
   \textit{Joan Cronin}

Conclusion Exploring mothering in future biographical research: interdisciplinarity, transdisciplinarity and new research agendas
   \textit{Lisa Moran, Lyudmila Nurse and Kateřina Sidiropulu-Janků}

Index