Contents

Introduction * 1

Pre–World War II

PART I
Urban Transit Rise and Decline * 21

CHAPTER 1
Baltimore: City Leaders versus Private Transit * 25

CHAPTER 2
Chicago: A Limited Public Commitment to Transit * 38

CHAPTER 3
Boston: Reverse Engineering Public Transit * 52

The Postwar Transit Disaster, 1945 to 1980

PART II
Unsubsidized Private Transit * 69

CHAPTER 4
Baltimore: Urban Crisis, Race, and Private Transit Collapse * 73

CHAPTER 5
Atlanta: Race, Transit, and the Sunbelt Boom * 114
PART III
“Pay as You Go” Public Transit * 147

CHAPTER 6
Chicago: The Failure of “Pay as You Go” Public Transit * 149

CHAPTER 7
Detroit: Racism and America’s Worst Big-City Transit * 189

PART IV
Public Transit That Worked Better * 223

CHAPTER 8
Boston Pioneers Public Regional Transit * 227

CHAPTER 9
San Francisco: Deeply Subsidized Public Transit * 258

Conclusion: Beyond Transit Fatalism * 288

Acknowledgments * 293
Notes * 295
Index * 351