

CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS xi

Introduction: What Is Degenerative Realism?	1
Something in the Air	8
Some Notes on Realism	19
Chapter Summaries	27
1. Demography and Survival in Twenty-First-Century France	32
The Worrisome Census: Demography and Dread	36
Degeneration: The New Old Anguish	42
Social Darwinism and Le Grand Remplacement	52
Stalemate Sex and 9/11 as Castration	56
The Future Is Female	72
2. Endarkenment from the Minitel to the Internet	81
From Minitel to Internet	84
Bellanger's Information Science Realism	91
Sex and Le Minitel rose	101
From Mysticism to Conspiracy Theory	104

CONTENTS

3. Real-Time Realism, Part 1: Journalistic Immediacy	121
Jean Raspail's The Camp of the Saints (1973): A Precursor	124
Journalism and the New Social Novel	135
The Global Event: Beyond the fait divers	149
4. Real-Time Realism, Part 2: Le roman post-pamphlétaire	158
The Features of littérature pamphlétaire	161
A Case Study: Michel Houellebecq's Submission (2015)	166
Conclusion
Novel as Nation: Forms of Parallel Decay	182

NOTES 191

BIBLIOGRAPHY 239

INDEX 261