Colleagues from various eras and segments of my career have given friendly, extremely helpful comments and answers to questions on earlier drafts: James S. Ackerman, Robert Ashbaugh, Richard Berg, David J.A. Clines, Burke Long, Marion T. Merrill, John Nicols, Arden Shenker, Steven J. Weitzman, Deborah Westbrook. None of them is responsible for any of the interpretations or ideas in the book, but all have assisted me to improve the presentations. One of the special advantages of my having married a writer is that Anita Sullivan has given me generous, sometimes properly acerbic, responses to several drafts. Her worth, as an old Hebrew proverbmonger once said, is “far beyond rubies.”
