Acknowledgments

Many people assisted me at every stage of this project, for which I am deeply grateful. I am especially indebted to the three generations of the Cortez community who generously shared their time, memories, personal and institutional records, and warm hospitality. I thank them all, including Robin Yuge Alexander, Gary Asai, Hiroshi Asai, Hisako Asai, Russell Asai, Shizue Asai, Asai Shizuka, Franklin Baba, Lena Date, Takashi Date, Shirley Baba Frice, Haruka Ishihara, Eugene Kajioka, Harry Kajioka, Kazumi Kajioka, Mae Kajioka, Mary Kajioka, Kajioka Masa, Kajiwarra Hajime, Kajiwarra Utako, Joe Kamiya, Marcia Kamiya, Mark Kamiya, Mary Kamiya, Grace Kimoto, Frances Kirihara, Christine Kubo, Daniel Kubo, Yoshi Kubo, Lucille Kumimoto, Florice Kuwahara, Sam Kuwahara, Kaoru Masuda, Yuriko Masuda, Ken Miyamoto, Takako Miyamoto, Albert Morimoto, Lois Morimoto, Mitsuko Morimoto, George Morofuji, Carole Narita, Haruko Narita, Leona Narita, Narita Saburo, Jack Nishihara, Takako Nishihara, Ada Nose, Alan Osugi, Ann Osugi, Sakaguchi Maju, May Sakaguchi, Rodney Sakaguchi, Yeichi Sakaguchi, Edward Sugiura, General Sugiura, Sugiura Suye, Grace Tanaka, Alice Taniguchi, Howard Taniguchi, Kumekichi Taniguchi, Candice Toyoda, Don Toyoda, May Toyoda, Edna Yamaguchi, Jim Yamaguchi, Lester Yamaguchi, Yamamoto Akio, Kiyoshi Yamamoto, Michael Yamamoto, Naomi Yamamoto, Ernest Yoshida, Ruth Yoshida, Sharyn Yoshida, Dennis Yotsuya, Edith Yotsuya, Ernest Yotsuya, Grace Yotsuya, Mae Yotsuya, Takeo Yotsuya, Umeko Yotsuya, and Yukihiro Yotsuya. Key Kobayashi, Sandy Lofton, Matsushige Tsune, Caroline Nakashima, Tom Nakashima, Nakashima Kohei, and Lily Takahashi were also helpful. Scottie Hagedorn provided a vital link to the community at the outset of this project. I owe special thanks to Nobuzo and Miye Baba and to George and Helen Yuge, who welcomed me into their families and made the oral history interviews possible. I cherish their friendship and wisdom.

In the course of research I benefited greatly from the invaluable help of librarians at Merced College, the California State University at Stanislaus, the Merced County Library, the Green Library and Hoover Library at Stanford University, and the University Research Library at the University of California, Los Angeles. The staff at the Shields Library at the University of California, Davis, provided vital insights into agricultural history; I thank Axel Borg, Rafaela Castro, David Lundquist, Ted Sibia and John Skarstad. I wish to acknowledge the crucial support of Marjorie Lee and Brian Niiya at the Asian American Studies Reading Room at UCLA. Thanks also to Carlos Hagen-Lautrup and Eric Scott at the Henry J. Bruman Map Library, and to Betty Takahashi at the University Research Library at UCLA. Paul Bowman contributed a fine map of the early Cortez properties. I also thank the personnel at the Turlock Journal and the Livingston Chronicle for their help and good humor, and Seizo Oka for his kindness to researchers.

The Henry and Chiyo Kuwahara Memorial Scholarship from the Japanese American Citizens League made much of this research possible. A career development award from UCLA also facilitated the progress of this manuscript. My orei to Don Nakanishi, Director of the Asian American Studies Center at UCLA, for his support and example.

The incisive comments of many scholars helped to shape this manuscript. Mary Rothschild introduced me to new visions of history and inspired me to undertake this study. Estelle Freedman provided critical insight, encouragement, and a model of integrity. I cannot imagine surviving this process without the friendship of Peggy Pascoe and Vicki Ruiz, who read my manuscript countless times, always offering invaluable feedback and cheer. I am also indebted to Gary Okihiro and Roger Daniels for their thoughtful suggestions and expertise. I thank the members of the Women's History Dissertation Reading Group at Stanford, who, in the midst of their own pressing work, took time to improve mine: Dorothy Sue Cobble, Elizabeth Cohen, Gary Sue Goodman, Gayle Gullett, Yukiko Hanawa, Gail Hershatter, Emily Honig, Susan Johnson, Sue Lynn, Joanne Meyerowitz, Peggy Pascoe, Vicki Ruiz, Penny Russell, Linda Schott, Frances Taylor Anton, and Katherine Weinert. Thanks are also due the colleagues who generously contributed to this project in myriad ways: David Gutierrez, Judy Yung, Bruce Schulman, Miriam Silverberg, Alexander Saxton, Thomas James, Yuji Ichioka, Regina Morantz-Sanchez, George Sanchez, Ellen DuBois, Peter Reill, Scott Waugh, and Ronald Mellor. Lisa Joe and Lisa Mortimer deserve credit for their painstaking, efficient research assistance.

I am grateful to Peter Agree, Kay Scheuer, and Joanne Hindman at Cornell University Press and copyeditor Martin Stanford for their patience, fortitude, and hard work.

For their sustaining friendship I thank Victoria Marney-Petix, Robert and Ellen Brigham, Nikki Sawada Bridges, Frances Taylor Anton, Moira Roth, Shirley Oaks, Bernice Zamora, Becky Smith, and Craig Manning.

I thank Terry, Sachi, and Lori Matsumoto for their loving support throughout this endeavor.

V.J.M.

Los Angeles, California

FARMING
THE
HOME
PLACE